Welcome back to the last half term of the academic year! They seem to come around quicker and quicker each time! We hope you all had a lovely break and enjoyed celebrating the Platinum Jubilee during the extra long Bank Holiday. We have lots of events and activities coming up this half term and will keep you updated in the coming weeks.

Just a quick reminder. We are always hopeful that the British weather will start to warm up over the Summer term and with this in mind, we ask that you provide your children with a drink each day and if the temperature is set to rise, that you either apply a 24-hr sun cream or put some in their bag for them to apply themselves.

And finally, we are very proud of all the children at Broadlands Primary School. Last half term was a 'testing' time for the Year 6 and Year 2 children, who showed how competent they are. We had lovely reports from visitors, including the Mayor of Hereford, BBC Breakfast News and 'The Queen', who were impressed by some mature questioning and the good behaviour of the children. Well done everyone and thank you for your continued support.

Years 3 and 4 had a fantastic time at Broomy Hill this week! They learnt all about the history of locomotives and even got to have a few train rides themselves!

Year 5 made their own chocolate bars which they then self-evaluated. They reported on the taste, texture and appearance of their bars. I imagine the tasting part took the longest to evaluate! I am sure a few of the staff would be happy to help the next time they do this!
